

Arts Committee

Mission

The mission of the Exeter Arts Committee is to promote art in public life and to work with local artists to develop an environment that supports their work. This includes visual art, music, dance, and poetry, among others.

Participation. The opportunity to participate in all EAC events is offered without discrimination and is open to all adult residents of Exeter and its surrounding communities. The committee retains the right to jury the exhibits it produces and administer volunteer work on the basis of common sense and community standards.

Calls to Exhibit. Most exhibits produced by the EAC are developed from open calls for local artists to exhibit their work. Typically, shows are not juried and any artist may submit work for exhibition. However, when demand for exhibition space exceeds the availability of such space, random lottery or other method chosen by the committee may determine award of the space to artists.

Committee Discretion. Every effort is made to make exhibition space and the opportunity for involvement fairly available to all, without regard to experience and stylistic preferences. However, the committee is the ultimate curator and jury for all exhibits it sponsors and, as such, the committee reserves the right to select artwork submitted for exhibition based upon community standards or for other reasons. The terms and conditions for participation in exhibits and other events are at the sole discretion of the Exeter Arts Committee and the Town of Exeter.

Liability. Artists participating in EAC exhibits do so entirely at their own risk. Although efforts are made to safeguard artwork while it is being exhibited, participating artists assume full liability for loss, damage, theft or other circumstances that may cause loss or harm to their artwork or other property as a result of their participation.

The Arts Committee Meets the Fourth Thursday of Every Month at 6:30 pm.
